The Hallmark of Good Food

Anna's Kitchen is more than a restaurant; it's a tribute to two remarkable women: Anna Elizabeth Johnsen and Anna Sophia Smit, who inspired its founding. Named after the mothers of the current owners, Anna's Kitchen celebrates their devotion to family, food, and the relentless work of motherhood. Together, these two Annas raised eight children each, a task demanding unwavering dedication and love.

Every morning, the Annas rose early to bake fresh bread, prepare breakfast, and see their husbands off to work. Their kitchens filled with the comforting aromas of warm bread, chocolate cake, and savoury meat sausages—favourites they lovingly crafted on coal-burning stoves, with refrigerators arriving only later in their lives. Known for their resilience, strong hands, and determined spirits, these women embodied the art of simple, home-cooked food, served with warmth and joy.

Today, Anna's Kitchen in Three Rivers stands as a living monument to these mothers and all women who work tirelessly to feed hungry mouths. It honours the values of simplicity, love, and family that the Annas upheld, serving meals that continue to reflect their legacy. "The Hallmark of Good Food" is, indeed, a heartfelt tribute to their enduring spirit.
